

Did You Know this about the disciple Thomas?

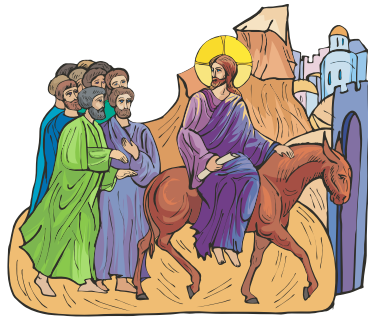

- He was called Didymus, which meant Thomas, the twin.

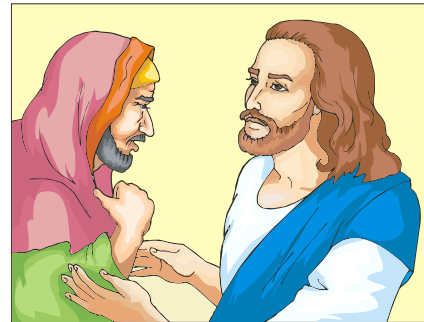

- After Jesus' resurrection, he says he won't believe that Jesus was raised from the dead unless he can put his hands in the nail prints.

- When Jesus was getting ready to return to Bethany, he said, "Let us also go, that we may die with him."

- When he saw Jesus after the resurrection, he believed.

- In one of Jesus' talks, he mentions going to his Father's house. Thomas says, "We do not know where you are going." Jesus then explained that his whole life led them to the Father.
